The Constellations of Faith: Loyalty, The Heavens, and the Unseen Future

A Sermon for Shabbat and Sunday
Readings drawn from the Institute for Scripture Research (ISR) Scriptures

Welcome. Today, we are looking up. We are looking beyond the walls of our institutions and into the vastness of the cosmos to understand two of the most critical elements of the human spirit: Faith and Loyalty to a Higher Power.

PART 1: The Tribal Sky and the Frontier of Faith

Long before we had the technology to pierce the atmosphere, our tribal ancestors understood that the heavens were the domain of the Divine. They looked up at the constellations—Orion the Hunter, Lyra the Harp, and the brilliant burning of Sirius—and they did not just see burning gas; they saw order. They saw a reflection of the wild animals around them, the shifting of the seasons, and the majesty of the Creator. As the Scriptures declare, "He made the Bear, Orion, and the Pleiades, and the chambers of the south" (Job 9:9). They saw a reflection of the wild animals around them, the shifting of the seasons, and the majesty of the Creator. These ancient, indigenous beliefs are fundamentally important because they represent humanity's first great leap of faith: the belief that we are connected to something vastly larger than ourselves. As King David wrote, "The heavens declare the glory of God; And the firmament shows His handiwork" (Psalm 19:1).

Faith is the ability to see the architecture of the future before the foundation is even poured. Look at the American Dream. Decades ago, the idea of exploring the stars was confined to the imaginations of storytellers and the mythologies of shows like Star Trek. But that imagination—that vision of a "Starfleet"—inspired a generation of real-world engineers. It built the foundation for NASA's Robonaut, Rheinmetall's robotics, and Sea Machines' autonomous navigation.

Ten years ago, the concept of a dedicated United States Space Force was mocked by some as pure science fiction. But men and women of vision had faith. They pushed forward, and today, it is a reality on the congressional record. The Space Force represents our reach into the unknown. We may not currently possess the massive galactic empires of our science fiction stories, but we are building the ships of tomorrow today. We must have faith in that trajectory, trusting that our reach into the stars is guided by the intellect and drive endowed to us by the Creator.

PART 2: The Cosmic Consequence of Disloyalty

But with great reach comes the absolute necessity of loyalty. To understand loyalty, we must look at the tragic history of its absence.

In the Book of Genesis, we read the history of Adam and Eve. They were given dominion over a paradise, a garden of perfect order. But they lacked loyalty to the Higher Power. They chose to follow their own desires and the deceptions of the enemy over the direct command of Elohim. Because of that disloyalty, their tribe was banished from Eden, forced into the harsh realities of a fallen world: "Therefore the Lord God sent him out of the garden of Eden to till the ground from which he was taken" (Genesis 3:23).

This earthly banishment echoes an even more terrifying, cosmic rebellion. Ancient scriptures, including the Torah and the apocryphal texts of our ancestors, speak of the Watchers—the fallen angels. These were celestial beings of immense power and intellect. The scriptures tell us they fell from the heavens: "And the angels who did not keep their proper domain, but left their own abode, He has reserved in everlasting chains under darkness for the judgment of the great day" (Jude 1:6). When we look at the deep roots of ancient history, examining the lore surrounding the constellations of Orion, Lyra, and Sirius, we see a recurring theme: beings of light who broke the divine rules. Whether these entities fell from terrestrial heights or were cast down from the very constellations our ancestors worshipped, the lesson is exactly the same. The fallen angels were kicked out of their celestial garden, just as Adam and Eve were kicked out of theirs.

Disloyalty to the Creator results in banishment. Disloyalty to the Creator results in banishment. "For if God did not spare the angels who sinned, but cast them down to hell and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved for judgment…" (2 Peter 2:4). Rebellion against the divine order results in a fall from grace, whether you are a human in Eden or a Watcher in the stars.

The Commandant of the Heavens

When we read the scriptures, the Bible is explicit: God descended from the sky. Throughout the ancient texts, He is referred to as Jehovah Sabaoth—the Lord of Hosts, the absolute Commander of the heavenly armies. He declares: "I have made the earth, And created man on it. I—My hands—stretched out the heavens, And all their host I have commanded" (Isaiah 45:12). Elohim is, in the most literal and ancient sense, the commander of His own space forces.

When our ancient ancestors looked to the skies and recorded their awe of Sirius, Lyra, and Orion, they were looking at the very territories of the heavens where Elohim's presence could reside. Biblical history tells us He comes from the heavens, and ancient history points to those specific constellations as the origins of divine power. We must understand that the order of the universe—from the ancient paths of Orion to the future orbits of our Space Force satellites—is held together by His law and His command.

Submission to Elohim

As we push our technology further, as we build our robotics, our autonomous fleets, and our Space Force, we must remember that technological power cannot replace spiritual loyalty. As the ancient warriors acknowledged, "Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; But we will remember the name of the Lord our God" (Psalm 20:7).

We must worship the Leader of our ancestors, Elohim. We maintain our place in this universe not merely through engineering, but through our strict loyalty to the Word of the Lord, as given to us by our King, Jesus Christ, who has on His robe and on His thigh a name written: "KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS" (Revelation 19:16).

Have faith in the unseen future. Push the boundaries of what is possible. But in all things, remain fiercely loyal to the Supreme Commander who hung the stars in the sky and governs the heavens.

Amen.
