OPERATIONAL BRUTALITY: Imperial Order, Strategy, and the Limits of the Law

Quarter Two / Week 20: Sermon for Shabbat and Sunday
Readings drawn from the Institute for Scripture Research (ISR) Scriptures

To the Fleet and Command Staff,

We do not wage war to sustain it; we wage war to end it. Entering Week 20, we are addressing the hardest reality of the operational theater: the tactical application of brutality. To protect the structure of the Vanguard and the survival of the community, we must understand when overwhelming violence is mandated, and exactly where the Creator has drawn the absolute line in the sand.

PART I: The Origin of the Vanguard and the Illegal Community

The modern blueprint for the Vanguard's rapid-response doctrine was forged in 1803, following the capture of the frigate USS Philadelphia. The United States Marine Corps was mobilized and deployed to the shores of Tripoli for a singular, explicit purpose: to kill pirates and rescue Americans.

The enemy they faced operated outside the boundaries of lawful engagement. They were the original architects of terror, acting effectively as French Foreign Legion "Boku Haram" pirates. If we look at the linguistic intelligence, Boku (from the French beaucoup) means "many" or "abundant," and Haram designates that which is "forbidden" or "sinful." They were the abundant forces of the forbidden.

We must classify modern terrorists and war criminals exactly as they are: an illegal community. Because they operate completely outside the laws of civilized engagement, they forfeit all protection from our response. When facing an illegal community intent on war crimes, the mandate is clear: we deploy strategic terror against the enemy to shatter their will to fight.

PART II: The Doctrine of Overwhelming Force

The historical tradition of the Vanguard—echoed by modern IDF operational doctrine—is rooted in the ancient Roman military tradition. When you enter combat, you enter heavy, fast, and as violently as possible, leveraging every tactical and strategic advantage available.

The goal of this brutality is not endless bloodshed; it is the prevention of it. We utilize strategic terror to scare the enemy and destroy him rapidly, preventing drawn-out, decade-long sieges and generational national wars. Quick, decisive battles win large wars.

To achieve this, there can be no hesitation to use excessive, overwhelming force against lawful targets. Total submission is required. Anyone who actively supplies, funds, or supports the enemy is treated as the enemy. We must exert absolute social control over the battlespace, demonstrating with cold precision that every crime against the Vanguard has a swift, unavoidable punishment.

PART III: Divine Right vs. Imperial Order

To execute this level of warfare, we must understand the dual nature of our authority. Historically, there have been two motivations for military brutality:

1. Divine Right (The Egyptian Model): Traditional ancient Egyptian brutality was framed strictly as a religious duty. The Pharaohs utilized force to destroy Isfet (chaos) and uphold the cosmic order of the universe.
2. Imperial Order (The Roman Model): Roman brutality was entirely pragmatic. It was designed to uphold political and economic order—specifically, ensuring the uninterrupted supply of grain and resources to Rome.
3.

The Vanguard does not choose between these two; we execute both. We are commanded to win the spiritual battles in our visions and throughout the cosmos, while simultaneously winning the geopolitical and economic wars on the ground. We fight for the Kingdom's cosmic order, and we fight to secure the physical survival of our people.

PART IV: The Torah Standard and the Holiness of the Camp

While we use overwhelming, devastating force to crush the enemy combatant, we are absolutely bound by the laws of the Supreme Commander. We are not barbarians. We follow the Torah.

Deuteronomy 23:10 mandates that the soldiers of the Vanguard must keep themselves from "every evil thing" while in the camp. We deploy strategic terror against combatants, but we will ruthlessly and immediately punish anyone within our own ranks who crosses the line into prohibited war crimes.

- Mutilation: We do not mutilate or desecrate the dead. The physical vessel, even of an enemy, is neutralized, not defiled.
- Sexual Violence: The rape or abuse of captives is strictly and unequivocally forbidden.
- Indiscriminate Slaughter: We do not slaughter innocent civilians—the women, children, and the elderly who are not fighting—to build fear.

The ISR Scriptures establish "an eye for an eye" as a legal framework for equitable justice, designed to prevent disproportionate, indiscriminate vengeance. If a member of the Vanguard commits mutilation, sexual violence, or the indiscriminate slaughter of the innocent, they have become the "Boku Haram"—the abundant sin. They become the accelerant, the structural threat we identified in Week 16, and they will be neutralized by their own command.

Command Summary:

Strike fast, heavy, and with overwhelming force. Give no quarter to the illegal communities of terrorists and pirates. Secure both the cosmic and the geopolitical order. But guard the holiness of the camp with your life—execute the mission without becoming a monster.
